HAWLEY HANGED.

Just Retribution Meted Out to a Virginia Murderer.

Marcus DeLafayette Hawley Confesses on the Gallows to His Crime.

Another Man Finds a Heaven Through the Gallows Course.

Miscellaneous Intelligence by Telegraph From all Parts.

Hawley Hanged.

SALEM, Va., Nov. 27.—The execution of Marcus DeLafayette Hawley, convicted last month in the circuit court of this county of the murder of Zachary Hayes, in June last, took place yesterday. Both the murderer and his victim were white men. The execution was conducted privately, the only persons present being the officers of the court, a small guard, a clergyman and reporters. A cold rain and sleet and hail prevailed. Hail fell steadily during the hanging.

At the foot of the scaffold a minister offered up a fervent prayer, after which the prisoner ascended the steps to the platform and was placed on the trap. The sheriff then told Hawley he was about to carry out the sentence of the law, and asked if he had anything to say. The prisoner made no answer, but the minister produced a paper containing Hawley's dying words, to the following effect:

"My time has come to die. I shot Jack Hayes, but I shot him believing that if I did not kill him he would kill me. I know I did wrong. I committed a sin in God's sight. For His word says, 'Resist all evil,' but I knew little about the bible at that time. Thank God I know now that Jesus died for sinners, and that his precious blood cleanseth those who trust in Him, from all sin. I pray God to forgive my sins, and they are many. I ask whom I have wronged to forgive me, from my heart, I forgive all who have wronged me. I am a great sinner, saved by God's free grace in Christ Jesus. May others take warning by my sad end and come to my blessed Savior, who alone can save from power as well as everlasting punishment of sin. Good by, I believe that Jesus, the son of God, is my Savior. I believe the Holy Spirit has changed my heart. I believe in the forgiveness of sin, resurrection of the body and life everlasting. Amen. I am ready, Lord Jesus. Receive my spirit."

The minister then placed his hand on the doomed man's head and invoked a blessing on him and bade him good-by. Hawley kissing him on the cheek. The prisoner's hands and legs were then pinioned, the rope adjusted, the black cap drawn over his face, and at the given signal the deputy sheriff sprung the trap. The fall was over eight feet, and death ensued without a struggle. On Wednesday evening last Hawley was married in jail to Nannie Hawkins, his paramour. He had previously sent a note to her in which he stated that in accordance with her expressed wish and his own desire, he would like to carry out the vows he had made to her, and that he wanted their two children to have the right to bear his name. Accordingly the two were united in wedlock by Rev. A. Goodwin of the Episcopal church, after which Hawley was baptized and received into the church.

See Board of Boats.

ALBANY, Nov. 27.—The superintendent of public works says it is the expectation to get all the boats loaded with perishable cargoes on the Champlain canal off the stream, and he thinks the officials will. Following is an estimate of the boats on the canal: Erie, 800 boats, 600 of which contain grain; Champlain, 120 boats, mostly potatoes, only a few barley, Oswego, Blackriver and Cayuga & Seneca, not to exceed 25 boats in all. Those on the Blackriver and Oswego are loaded with lumber and potatoes, and those on the Cayuga & Seneca with coal. An effort on the Delaware & Hudson canal has been stopped on account of the ice, which is now six inches thick and still forming.

A Dealer Dead.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 27.—David Nicholson, for many years the most extensive wholesale and retail grocer in the west, and a very heavy direct importer of wines and liquors and fancy staple groceries, died at his residence here last evening. Mr. Nicholson was well known throughout the country as perhaps the largest dealer in his line west of the Allegheny mountains.

Killed by a Snow Slide.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—Cheyenne advices to the Leader from North Park, states that a party of five miners going from Georgetown, Col., to North Park were precipitated in an immense snow slide on the continental divide, Saturday last. C. H. Easton and James Gray were instantly killed, and James Frazer had his thigh bone broken in two places. The remaining two, Nelson and Sandler, escaped with several bruises. The body of Easton was found and buried in the snow. Gray's body could not be found. The party had been out in the storm for five days, and were nearly famished when the accident occurred.

Bodies Recovered.

Dubuque, Nov. 27.—The bodies of both ladies who were drowned in the river have been recovered. Two men, from Wisconsin, undertook to drive across the river on the ice today. When two-thirds the way over the ice gave way. The team instantly disappeared, but the men managed to crawl out and reach the shore.

Shut Down.

Troy, Nov. 27.—The Bessemer steel works, the Albany & Rensselaer spike mill, and Borden's water mill, have shut down on account of low water. One thousand men are thrown out of employment.

Fire in Milwaukee.

MILWAUKEE, Nov. 27.—A fire in the Lawrence block, occupied by the American express company and other offices, yesterday afternoon, damaged the building and office furniture to the amount of $6,000.

Fatally Shot.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—Policeman Lawrence, of Jersey City, fatally shot Peter Murry, who had attempted to escape after being arrested for burglary.

In the Ice.

QUEBEC, Nov. 27.—The schooner Celestine, inward bound, reported in the ice, has been employed in connection with the New York coast telegraph, and has a number of workmen aboard.

Quashed.

VICKSBURG, Nov. 27.—The charges against the democratic committee of the Sixth district and of Warren county were quashed by Judge Hall, in the United States court, at Jackson.

New Land Bill.

LONDON, Nov. 27.—The News, in a leader, says: The new Irish land bill will be beyond question a genuine and practicable effort to settle the controversy.

Raised Notes.

TORONTO, Nov. 27.—A four dollar note of the Canadian bank of commerce, which has been raised to ten, is in circulation here.

Capt. E. B. Smith entered a complaint in Ryan's court, against Thomas J. Hammond, who is insane. Squires Ryan and Zollinger examined into the testimony of the witnesses, and also Dr. Fiser's evidence and adjudged him insane; he will be sent to the insane asylum. Col. Zollinger took the same party to the asylum some years ago.

Fliegner's Furore.

Ferd Fliegner is back from New York, and as a matter of course there is to be another boom in the furniture business. Whenever Ferd returns he makes the fur fly, and this time is no exception to the rule. He has now the finest stock of furniture to be found anywhere in the west, and the marvelously low prices have caused a perfect rush of buyers. For the holidays he offers special inducements in fine furniture, and any one who wants to buy furniture and cannot be suited at Fliegner's had better give up the idea of purchasing at once. If you can not be suited at Fliegner's you certainly can not be anywhere else. He has every conceivable design of furniture and not an article leaves his store that is not warranted to give satisfaction.

There is one specialty, however, among Fliegner's vast stock which no lady in Fort Wayne should fail to examine, and that is a number of painted, dyes which have just arrived from the east. These articles are all hand painted and are really the most artistically designed we have ever seen. Do not fail to examine them.

Death of a Good Man.

Political malice has ceased, or pretended to cease, at the portal of the grave of this good old man. Blue Jeans Williams is pretentiously the sincerest mourner over his remains. If men who do this class of infamous detraction have any conscience, it should give them trouble; and if they have any self respect, it is difficult to see how they can help hating themselves as heartily as they are hated and despised by the decent element of the community in which they exist.

New lamps, new hand painted china, new decorated tea and dinner sets, new Majolica ware, new plated silver ware, new toilet ware, new complements of our three jolly dogs, at Ward's new store, on West Columbia street. Ward's cheap crockery store.

Statement of the First Mate as to How the Collision Occurred.

Shot Dead in Kentucky—Disagreement of a Chicago Jury.

The Cold Remains Unabated—General Telegraphic Intelligence.

Foul Play Suspected.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—The police of Jersey City entertain suspicions that Mrs. Martha Emma Leback, burned at her home, on the corner of Jersey avenue and First street, early yesterday morning, did not meet with accidental death. She is the wife of Peter Leback, a barber, and it is said that mutual jealousy has embittered the couple against each other. The chamber of death, when the chief of police visited it this morning, every where bore marks of the woman's horrible agony. She pressed her back against the wall to put out the fire, and the imprint of her figure is burned into it. At another point the form of her hand is burned into the wall. Suspicion was aroused that the burning was not accidental, from the fact that the seat of the chair in which the woman had been sitting was burned entirely out.

Deaths in Michigan.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 27.—Thanks-giving day seems to have been adopted in this state as the favorable time to make an exit from this world of care. A man and wife at Orono, Ingham county, quarreled about some trifling matter, when the man left the house threatening to shoot himself. No trace of him could be found, and he is believed to have carried the threat into execution. A well-to-do farmer in Mayfield, Lapeer county, after eating breakfast, went to the barn to do his chores, where, shortly after, he was found hanging by the neck and dead. It is supposed to be a case of dependency over slight financial troubles. A woman in East Saginaw was also found in the wood shed of her house hanging, dead. Domestic difficulties cause the cause.

That Terrible Collision.

ROME, Nov. 27.—The first mate of the steamer Ortigia, which sank the single mast head light about a kilometer ahead, he deemed it the light of a merchantman and ordered the Ortigia's helm ported, expecting the merchantman to do the same, but the Ortigia's star-boarded her helm until she saw the Ortigia bearing down upon her, when she ported, describing a semi-circle and exposing her flag. The mate of the Ortigia then ordered her engines reversed, but it was too late, and the Ortigia's prow drove in the side of the Ortigia Joseph. Few of the sleepers on board the Ortigia had time to rush on deck before the vessel sank.

Another Railroad Accident.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 27.—Intelligence has just been received here of an accident on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad at Bauman's station last night about 12 o'clock, to the Baltimore express, No. 3, which left this city at 8:05 p. m. Upon nearing Bauman's station, which is thirty miles west of Cumberland, the train encountered a broken rail and the engine, with the entire train, went over an embankment and landed upon its side. Fireman Routh was instantly killed and the engineer, whose name could not be learned, was badly scalded. The passengers escaped without injury, though badly shaken up.

Destructive Snow Slide.

DENVER, Col., Nov. 27.—The Leadville Chronicle says sixty laborers were buried in a snow slide yesterday near Chalk creek, on the Colorado extension of the Denver & Rio Grande road. About 11 o'clock a. m., they noticed some pine trees trembling, and in an instant the slide came, with a loud roar, tearing up the track for a distance of a quarter of a mile and burying sixty men. John Dine was killed, nineteen men were badly injured and eleven others slightly. The slide carried the track over the heads of the men, and most of the wounds were probably caused by the iron striking them.

Struck by a Train.

LAWWOOD, N. J., Nov. 27.—As the family carriage of James Johnson, a wealthy resident of this place, was being driven by the driver, a New Jersey Southern railroad track foreman, it was struck by a freight train and the carriage completely demolished. Both horses were killed, and Mr. Johnson, his daughter-in-law and her infant child thrown into a snowbank twenty feet distant. The injuries of Johnson and his daughter are probably fatal. The child was but slightly hurt.

Storage Notes.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 27.—The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad company postponed the following notice at the corn and flour exchange to-day:

"Notice is hereby given that on and after the 6th day of December, 1880, the rate of extra storage on wheat at the elevators of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, at Locust Point, will be 3-16 of 1 per cent. per bushel for five days or parts of same, and 2 1/2 cents per bushel for each and every ten days thereafter, or parts of same."

The notice created quite a commotion among operators, and wheat fell several cents per bushel. The company say this timely notice has been given with no idea or intention what error of an increase of revenue from storage, but simply to avert a blockade in the elevators, and on several thousand cars at this port, which would prevent a steady and regular flow of wheat from the west and cause a lockup here.

Bonnie a British Ship.

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 27.—Commodore Hughes received a telegram yesterday from the secretary of the navy, approving his course relative to the British steamship Sandringham, and ordering him to put her out of dock if she was not in danger of sinking, and if she is, only to make such repairs as will enable her to reach a private dock yard. This morning Naval Constructor Webb examined the ship, and reported to the commodore that she would be able to reach Baltimore without any danger of sinking. Upon the receipt of Webb's report, Commodore Mullen was immediately despatched to order her out of dock.

Frozen to Death.

QUEBEC, Nov. 27.—A dispatch from the keeper of the Southwest Point Anticosti light house says a messenger arrived from Bechis river reports the bark Bristolian ashore there last Monday night. Four of the crew were dead and the remainder, including the captain and mate badly frozen. The survivors are destitute of everything. The crew and passengers are saved. Send a steamer at once as assistance is very urgent.

Miraculous Escape.

NEW YORK, Nov. 27.—During a slight fire in a boarding house, at No. 154 Grand street, James H. De Witt was suffocated while in bed. Mary Hawks threw her child out of the second story window and leaped after it. The child was caught in the arms of a fireman and was uninjured, and the woman was only slightly hurt, the fireman having broken the force of her fall.

The Denver and Rio Grande. COLORADO SPRINGS, Nov. 27.—At the stockholders meeting of the Denver and Rio Grande company yesterday. General Palmer voted 7-10 of the stock. W. J. Palmer, W. A. Bell, C. F. Woerchschaffer, Russell Sage, Jay Gould and D. C. Dodge were elected directors. The new extensions were authorized. General Palmer was entire master of the situation and is supposed to have voted Gould's stock.

Shot Dead.

PEMBROKE, Ky., Nov. 27.—Col. M. D. Brown, a well known citizen of this place, member of the legislature of Kentucky, was shot and instantly killed last night by Cash Wilkins, clerk in a livery stable. The shooting was the end of a quarrel about the care of Col. Brown's horses, kept at the stable where Wilkins was employed.

Disagreed.

CHICAGO, Nov. 27.—The jury in the case of Minnie Dixon, on her second trial for the murder of her paramour, Thomas Delaney, disagreed and were discharged this morning. They stood seven for acquittal and five for conviction. The jury disagreed also in the previous trial of the woman.

ADDITIONAL CITY NEWS.

Services as usual at the Christian church to-morrow.

No. 5 on the Pittsburg was two hours and a half late to-day.

Barcus gave a Thanksgiving dinner to his boarders free, and the same was highly enjoyed.

L. J. Lanigan, of the Pittsburg road, has been promoted to engineer and will hereafter hold the throttle. William Lohermann has received his papers entitling him to "shut down" or "open up" an engine on the Pittsburg road.

Trinity church, Rev. W. N. Webbe, rector—Services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.; Sunday school at 2 p. m. Strangers welcome.

Twenty applicants for teachers' license passed through the ordeal to-day, and will, no doubt, be made happy by receiving their certificates to teach.

Seven fine, large deer were the attraction at the South depot to-day. They were shipped from Grand Rapids, Mich., to James Egely, Columbia City, Ind.

Messrs. Lindlag and Horstmeier started out to shoot a deer, but their friends are fixing for a mess of veal as they realize the fact that a new hunter has a deal of a time to tell a buck from a calf.

Judge Borden has taken the Hensch-O'Rourke muddle under advisement and adjourned the court until Monday, at which time the argument will be heard in the Lee Burt case.

The United Brethren of this city are protracting a meeting which is progressing favorably. Rev. S. T. Mahan, of Zanesville circuit, is expected to be present and assist in the meeting. All are cordially invited to attend.

A $2,000 fire occurred in the oil house of the Wabash road at 4:30 this morning, caused by setting a can of oil on the stove and allowing it to remain until the bottom melted out, causing the oil to run over the stove. The fire department was called out, but a few buckets full of water extinguished it.

P. A. Lynn, of Indianapolis, will open an office on the corner of Wayne and Calhoun streets, in the building now occupied as a second hand store, for the Starr Union Line fast freight over the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago and the Wabash, St. Louis & Pacific railroads. Mr. Lynn comes to this place well recommended and will undoubtedly give satisfaction to all who may have occasion to call on him.

Dead.

On the 26th inst., Dr. Beck's cat, Benjamin Franklin, which accounts for the grand pow wow at the medical college last night. After a grand war dance around the remains, and a few flourishes of their scalping knives, the master of ceremonies proceeded to explain the whys and wherefores of the death of Bennie further deponent saith not.

SPORTING EMPORIUM.

Miller & Raquet's Immense Stock. Messrs. Miller & Raquet, the enterprising dealers in sporting goods, at 24 West Main street, desire to call the attention of the sporting fraternity to the recent large additions made to their stock. This firm, as soon as established, jumped at once to the foremost place among their competitors, and this position they have steadfastly maintained by reason of their low prices, and general satisfaction which their goods have given. Their stock of sporting goods at present is the finest in the city. They have recently been appointed agents for the celebrated Baker gun, probably the best article of the kind in the American market at present. It has found universal favor among the sporting classes of the east and is fast creeping into popularity throughout the west.

Messrs. Miller & Raquet respectfully invite the public generally to call and see them. They esteem it a pleasure to show goods, whether you purchase or not, and you will be courteously treated, of that you may rest assured.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 27.

BY E. A. K. HACKETT.

HANLAN, on his arrival in this country, will be given a grand reception.

J. P. HEATWOLE, of Middlebury, announces himself as candidate for secretary of state. He has a Record.

THE Terre Haute Gazette has been sued by one C. F. Henderson, a "Leadville orator," for libel in the sum of $10,000. Is that the way they do business in Leadville?

ANOTHER new-paper has come to the front with the name of General Hancock for president in 1884, in the form of the Princeton Democrat. It appends the name of Lyman Trumbull for second place.

THE SENTINEL was the only afternoon paper in the country that contained a sketch of the life of Governor Williams on the afternoon of the day of his death. This sketch, although hurriedly prepared, was copied by many of the best papers of the country.

The first number of the Daily News published at Ann Arbor, Mich., has been received. It is published by Messrs. Rousscup & Tanner, the former known as a former Fort Wayne compositor, the latter as late foreman of the Toledo Telegram. May success attend the boys.

WARSAW Union: The afternoon Fort Wayne SENTINEL, which reaches this city on the evening accommodation train, is about the best and newest little daily that comes here. It gives as much telegraphic news as the larger and more expensive sheets, and sells for only ten cents a week delivered at your residence.

THIS, from the Decatur Democrat, is to the point: The squabble for the Fort Wayne postoffice has already begun. Page, one of the editors of an obscure evening sheet, is an aspirant, and his chances of success ought to be considered good, for his nondescript slung more dirt to the square inch during the campaign than any other paper in Indiana.

Not a single instance can be found in the state press of an unkind allusion to the late Governor Williams, organs of all creeds and parties uniting in paying homage to the good and true man. In life, different interpretations can and always will be put upon the acts of a public man, but the press of Indiana can readily join hands in paying respect to one who has passed from earth, and whose fame no newspaper can tarnish.

A STORY has got about that a Toledo ticket broker has purchased $275,000 worth of tickets of the Lake Erie & Western railroad, said tickets being to all western points, and to be sold at reduced rates. The story grows out of the imagination of a Toledo reporter, who has been gulled by the scalper into making various misleading statements. The fact is about $50,000 worth of tickets have been deposited with the broker for sale, and the report is spread around that a great rate cut will be made. It is all an advertising dodge.

IF THERE be no political intent in the proposition for a mass convention of ex-slaves from the south to be held in Greenville, on December 10, a call having already been issued, then the matter should receive the co-operation of all citizens. The object of the convention is said to be to compare their different experiences with the people, soil and climate of Indiana, and to report upon the feasibility of aiding further the exodus to Indiana. All colored men who have recently left the south are invited and expected to be present.

For The Sentinel.
THE HOURS WE'VE PASSED TOGETHER.
TO J. BY BUR VESTA.

Oh! magic words, your cadence
Within our memory swells:
Days, weeks, months or ages
Your memory brings to tell
Of love and friendships mingled,
In calm or stormy weather,
The blissful times passed o'er us—
The hours we've passed together.

In sorrow or in gladness
We journeyed side by side;
In sickness, and in sadness,
We braved the surging tide;
But now, dear friend, as o'er us Time's changes ring, say whether You give one thought to days "long since"
And the hours we've passed together.

Those happy days are buried
"Mong the treasures of the past;
Like roses of the June-time,
They were too sweet to last.
But yet, as June's sweet fragrance
To the blossoms ever clings, Thus we renew our pleasures
In the fragrance memory brings.

And, though old time has come between,
And sprang sweet bloom is lost,
Yet we'll treasure them, my friend,
The joys, at any cost.
Though far away, we'll meet again,
And then we'll whisper whether The sweetest memories we retain
Are the hours we spent together.

SUMMER RAMBLES

Told by Winter Firesides.
BY FRED. H. WHIPPLE.

NUMBER III.

It was a laughing, sparkling, companionable, well assorted party, that, passably well supplied with brains and thoroughly well versed in the matter in hand, met one evening in the comfortable parlors of the Penegawasset house to organize for an ascent of the White mountains. There is much in these preparatory meetings. In the first place a successful excursion must be organized by somebody. However you may tumble into it hap-hazard somebody has planned and prepared for it. The victories which nobody organizes are no more to be counted upon, in any undertaking, than the fortunes that fall to lucky people from forgotten Californian uncles. And, least of all, can you trust to chances for the successful issue of a day excursion, where a single fault in the commissariat or the quartermaster's department may cause infinite disaster. To be sure, some considerate or generous persons generally provide all things necessary, but it is every way better to do it in merry committee of the whole.

Our council in preparation for Mount Washington had no perplexing subject for debate. A railway ride of a short distance, where carriages had been engaged, disposed of the matter of transportation. Apparatus for open-air cooking we had ready, and supplies of cold meats, boiled eggs, sandwiches, fruits and all manner of picnic fare were reported in quantities that only mountaineer appetites could expect to do away with. It only remained to provide for protection against the night dews and the mists of the mountain top, and that was soon carefully arranged.

"We were a gay party of 'tourists' the same I had met at the Blush Hollow, and for want of more suitable recreation, had verily transplanted ourselves, bag and baggage, from the old Bay State, to the hills of New Hampshire. Of course we had thus far followed a routine, mapped out, all rail route, until we reached the Penegawasset house, where we were to make our headquarters, and, for a week enjoy the beauties of other mountains aside from those near which we had spent the last fortnight. In sound, prosy fact, we intended to attempt the ascent of that grand old and famous Mount Washington, the king of the White mountains. We started, and our ascent was prosaic indeed. We sacrificed a little romance for the sake of a good deal of ease, still we were often tempted from our comfortable conveyances into groves, glades and recesses among the rocks by the road side. Even after a sojourn of prolonged dinner, enjoyed in full view of a magnificent but narrow landscape we had ample time to ascend the observatory and enjoy the stupendous scenery which presented itself in every direction. We were in rare good fortune. The atmosphere was exceptionally pure, rendering the view as clear and distinct as one of such vast proportions can ever be. Approximately to measure that vastness in your mind, consider that the diameter—not the circumference—of the horizon revealed to you, is some three hundred miles. From where we were we could look back over the path we had come and gaze upon a grand picture as the mind can well conceive. We look down into the basin-like valley with its sides sweeping upwards in graceful concaves, cascade and waterfall tumble from the mountain and the river like silver threads weave in and out among the rocks and through the green texture of overhanging foliage. When the days begin to lengthen, and the sun runs high in the heavens; when the short nights fall to cool the heated streets of the dusty city and man feels that he must have respite from the care and excitement of business; when the mother rises in the morning unrefreshed, and the children grow languid for a change, when finally the family council decide that a few weeks vacation must be spent in the country—no place can be found where the cool mountain air blows fresher, where the crystal streams flow purer, or where nature wears a lovelier garb than in the White mountain region. From the top of Mount Washington, the neater and gentler, but still bold and commanding, view is close upon the south, where the great valley lies spread out before us; in its center the reeds and spires of North Conway, with a fair coronation of glassy lakes glittering around them, and on every side, half hidden villages and village churches gleaming white upon the verdant back ground of woods and fields. A scene, take it all in, to be tenderly yearned over by the children of that glorious valley, and to be admired by the meekest chance-comer to the hill top. While he lingered dreamily over it, the sun went down, leaving on that transparent sky, no such cloud-shapes of fantastic gorgeousness as often veil his parting, but, along the whole western horizon, one broad, uniform band of glowing light—stealing from the richer orange through all golden tints, until it melted from liquid amber into crystal chrysopease, and then was lost in the prevailing azure. The gold faded from the western heavens; and then the grey was absorbed in the blue. The evening shades filled the valley; crept up the mountain side; enveloped grove and tower, and our little group, who so silently waited their coming. As was fitting, even in the merriest party, we yielded for awhile to the solemn promptings of the hour; but it is not fitting, even were it possible, that they should long curb the glee of a mountain excursion. So we came back to the practical and built a rousing fire of boughs and shrubs which cast a stange, wild, red glare upon our improvised tent, and the overhanging foliage, investing the ladies who gath'ered around it, with a weird, gypsy beauty that was very enchanting.

The little grotto of light we had wrought out in the great darkness, had hardly disappeared, when the white moon rose up the eastern sky, revealing new realms of splendor. Little by little the hills and valleys emerged from the shadow; reposing in the pallor, or gleaming in the silver sheen, of the white radiance. There was no longer any color in the picture. It was drawn in crayon—all light and shade. There is something altogether delusive in the brilliance of moonlight. It dazzles but cannot illuminate. It will light you to your serenade, but you cannot read a sentence by it. We found that the eye tired very quick of such scenery and we were not loath to obey when our chief called us to our couches. In fact, at a joke from Jed, we knew that the embrace of the night air were uncanny, if not deadly, and we fled before the advancing specters, screaming—with laughter.

The floor of our rude habitation, with all due respect to the makers, had been spread with elastic boughs, of balsam odor, from the near woods; shaggy bear and buffalo robes, army blankets and rubber coverings were liberally distributed. Generous cups of hot coffee were dealt out. Prayers were read. Then stillness was enjoined upon the wakeful, and soon those not too much excited by the novelty of the scene, slept peacefully. Before morning all enjoyed a healthful sleep, undisturbed except, once or twice by a fitful cloud which drifted through the open windows—just to remind us how near to we were heaven. A bugle sounding from a neighboring party of mad-caps roused us with pleasant surprise by a wild reveille as soon as light began to kindle beyond the Green mountains. Gradually the surroundings changed from gold to a golden blaze; the sun came up adding new splendor to the glowing scene. Then the mist began to lift itself with the breeze until the green earth lay again beneath us revealed in all its summer beauty. Kindred games sufficed to amuse us there on the mountain top, and it was not until the middle of the afternoon that we yielded to the siren call that lack of supplies and camp equipage would depress our noble rage to pass another night upon the peak and we shaped our course homeward, taking our bearings solely with reference to directness. Our straight course brought us to the verge of a precipitous descent of a thousand feet, but with sufficient inclination to give root hold to a moderately thick growth of trees. Down this sharp descent we dropped rapidly, clinging for support to the branches and undergrowth and deliciously refreshed by frequent draughts of cold and limpid water which gushed from a thousand springs. At the foot of the precipice, a brook crawled its way between banks which afforded a narrow grassy glade, this we followed for a short distance, and then—we were home at the Penegawasset.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 27.

God Careth.
One of the sweet old chapters, After a day like this; The day brought tears and trouble, The evening brings no kiss, Nor rest in the arms I long for— Rest and refuge, and home; Grieved, and lonely, and weary, Unto the Book I come.
One of the sweet old chapters— The love that blossoms through His care of the birds and lilies, Out in the meadow dew.
His evening lies soft around them; Their faith is simply to be; Ah! hushed by the tender lesson, My God, let me rest in Thee!

OUR BOOK TABLE.

The Industries of Fort Wayne, by C. M. Coen. Published by The Sentinel Company.

A copy of a paper covered pamphlet, entitled "The Trade, Commerce and Manufactures of Fort Wayne," has been placed on the editorial desk. A perusal of the work shows that it is an historical and descriptive review of the manufacturing advantages, business and transportation facilities, together with sketches of the principal business houses of the city, all neatly grouped together in a clever and painstaking manner by the compiler, Mr. C. M. Coen. An admirable review of the school system by Dr. Jno. S. Irvin, superintendent of public schools appears in the first part of the book, and contains much interesting matter pertaining to the rise and progress of our public instruction system. In addition there is much that will be read by the average Indian within the leaves of this book.

Endymion—by Dierckx.
L. J. Jennings writes: Lord Beaconsfield's new novel, "Endymion," will be published toward the end of this month. It has been generally reported and believed that Mr. Gladstone was to figure largely in its pages, and possibly to be mentioned in an uncomplimentary fashion as Prof. Goldwin Smith was in "Lothair." But I am enabled to state upon the very best authority that this is not the case. There will, however, be several pungent sketches of well known men and women of the day. The Longmans have paid the immense sum of £10,000 for the manuscript. No such price was ever heard of before for a novel, and I understand that Lord Beaconsfield is so well pleased with this liberal treatment that he has promised the same enterprising firm a novel to succeed "Endymion," for which he has been offered similar terms. The interest of the literary, of the social, and I may add, of the political world is concentrated on this new book, and I have heard that the first edition will be of not less than twenty thousand copies.

Literary Gift Chat.
Henri Rochefort has been writing a communistic novel.
Bret Harte is writing a Christmas story for the London Graphic.
Mr. William Gibson's charmingly illustrated articles in Harper's Magazine will soon appear in book form, bearing the title "Pastoral Days."
Ward & Drummond have just issued "The International Sunday School lessons for 1881, with golden text and bible gems," arranged by Elijah N. Wilson.
It is announced that Mr. Edwin Arnold will contribute an original poem of some length to the January number of the International Review.

The Daily Sentinel
SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 27.
FORT WAYNE.

Plenty of farmers in the city today.
Pork and beef are cheap on our streets.
Plenty of venison in town, but it is deer meat.
John Sanders expects to reach this city sometime next month.
The epizooty among the horses is almost a thing of the past.
Nineteen names graced the register of the Avenue house yesterday.
Several farmers were in the city yesterday with four horse teams.
It is reported that Charley Bartine is trying to lease the Olympic theatre.
Henry Trentman will have one of the finest houses in the city when completed.
Frank Gilland is the happiest conductor on the Pittsburgh—cause, a bouncing boy.
Sylvester Decker, plain drunk, will grace the stone yard with his presence for ten days.
Mrs. C. L. Hill sustained some very severe injuries by falling down stairs a few days ago.
John W. Zim and Anna Dalonder will hereafter travel double, as they have procured their permit.
The Mayer house register looks up with the names of twenty-two guests who stopped there yesterday.
Some of the gas lights on Berry street, last evening, were very dim.
Let the gas committee investigate the matter.
The criminal court is occupied in hearing the evidence in the case of Robinson vs. Robinson—settlement of estate.
Charles Schwartz, a drunk and disorderly, arrested by "officers" Healy and Hanna, was fined $10.00, which he paid.
Mrs. Rossington, an aged and infirm old lady, who lives on Madison street, was knocked down by a large dog and slightly injured, Thursday.
The Toledo, Delphos and Burlington narrow gauge are building more new sidings and water tanks. Four more engines are expected daily.
David Sites, an employee of the organ factory, accidentally shot a fellow workman by the name of Del-pert Wright in the face last Sunday.
T. J. Hanna, of West Wayne street, is repairing his house and fitting it into excellent shape. When finished it will present a handsome appearance.
Engine 39, another one of the new ten-wheelers ordered by the Grand Rapids and Indiana, has arrived, and will be handled by Mart Garrison, as engineer.
A couple of men from Michigan, have leased the Olympic theatre, and will open with a first class troupe direct from New York, a week from Monday.
And now that "snide," the "oldest inhabitant," comes to the front and says this is the coldest weather experienced in the month of November for fifty years.
There is no necessity to neglect your business if you will only use Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup at once; the most reliable remedy in the world for coughs, colds, etc.
The tramps have evidently left for the south, as the weather in this latitude is not warm enough for them to sleep in fence corners, hay stacks and such other places.
Mrs. Olive E. Leschey has sued Aaron Leschey in the circuit court for divorce, on the grounds of failure to provide, cruelty and abandonment.
They were married in 1876.
Frank P. Jones, son of G. W.
Jones, who was injured in Chicago by jumping from a street car a few days ago, is able to limp around and his speedy recovery is expected.
Frank Donovan was released from jail yesterday, his fine being paid by the parties he works for. Frank is generally a good, sober boy, and this was only a misstep which may occur to any one.
Charles Ryall, son of the late city civil engineer, had a portion of his right hand badly crushed in the Wabash yards Tuesday. A portion of the hand was amputated, and Charlie is doing as well as could be expected.
The good looking Hez. Brinkerhoff, night operator at Bucyrus, has come to the conclusion that it is not well for a man to live alone, and will "give the blue birds" whistle, take under himself a help-mate, a daughter of Fred Weber, express agent at Bucyrus, being the prospective help mate.

The topic in the Berry Street Metodist Episcopal church to-morrow will be "The Song of the Future." No services in the evening. The third quarterly meeting will be held next Saturday evening and Sunday.

The simple announcement that the butcher boys are going to give a del masque will cause a flutter in the hearts of all who love to spend a pleasant evening. Every one knows that when the boys start out to do anything of that kind it will be a success.

Miss Carrie Johnson, Fort Wayne's gifted elocutionist, will be married shortly to Stewart D. Morgan, a wealthy Chicago merchant. Miss Johnson is at present in the Garden City, studying for her chosen profession. Her hosts of friends in this city will be overjoyed to hear that she is meeting with every success.

The latest insurance society is an anti-marriage association, each club to consist of a thousand members, every member paying five dollars in initiation fee, two dollars yearly dues and one dollar every time a member gets married. The insurance received by every man of the order who marries is one thousand dollars. Now is the time for Fort Wayne to establish a dowry club, and, no doubt, the county clerk will invest something in the scheme, as it will prove to be a sure way of increasing the revenues of his office on the marriage certificate business. Start it up, girls, and you will find the boys more anxious to "come and see you" than ever.

Pass Him Around.
A man representing himself as C.
J. Armstrong, head of a wholesale tobacco house in New York and Toledo, and also as a prominent mason, called at this office yesterday to procure aid—in the shape of money—to enable him to get out of the city.
He completely took in the reporter of this paper, so far as recommendations were concerned in sending him to some of the leading masons of the city. He was sent to Mr. George D.
Crane, to whom he represented himself as belonging to the California lodge, and claimed to have met Mr.
Crane at the grand encampment at Chicago, a short time ago, at their grounds near the lake. But Mr. Crane took the wind out of his sails when he told him that he had not been near the encampment of the California folks during his stay there. The gentleman is evidently a first class fraud, and traveling around on his cheek. Mr. Armstrong has a patch on his nose, mustache and round crowned hat. He possessed cards bearing the name of C. E. Armstrong, Toledo, Ohio; Toledo Commandery,
No. 7.

A Warning to Parents.
Little Cora Glessner, a nine year old daughter of C. A. Glessner, of West Wayne street, came near losing her life yesterday on the St.
Mary's river, back of the Methodist college. Cora, in company with several other little girls, was engaged in coasting down the hill which leads to the river, and crossing over to the other side. While coming back, and when about in the middle of the river, the ice broke and she sank in as far as her arms with which she clutched the ice and held on until her companions succeeded in drawing her out. Children should never be allowed to venture upon such dangerous places unless accompanied by an older person, and the only wonder is that there are not more accidents of a similar character.

A Sad Accident.
W. W. Reed, proprietor of the Mayer house, returned from Mansfield, Ohio, at 3 o'clock this morning, whither he had been called by a telegram announcing the dangerous illness of his brother, E. P. Reed, who died shortly after Mr. Reed's arrival there. E. P. Reed was foreman of the large sash factory at Mansfield and in passing from one room to another, on last Tuesday, was struck in the groin by a piece of board which had caught on one of the saws from which it was thrown with great force.
At 4 o'clock Thursday paralysis set in and death ensued in a short time. He leaves a wife and five children in comfortable circumstances. The funeral took place at 10 o'clock this morning. Mr. W. W. Reed was obliged to return to this city immediately on account of the sickness of his wife who has been dangerously ill for the past eight weeks. Mr. Reed has the sympathy of all in this the hour of his sore affliction.

Another Old Settler Gone.
BECKETT—At her residence No. 200 East Wayne street, just expired at 3 o'clock, Mrs. Beckett, aged 81 years.
Funeral Monday at 9:30 o'clock from the Cathedral. Father Becket officiating.

Mrs. Beckett came to this city in 1824 from Detroit, Michigan, consequently has passed through many of the stirring incidents of the early days of Fort Wayne, the population at that time being more than half Indians.
Mrs. Beckett has always been hale and hearty, being only confined to her bed three weeks before her death. Thus, one by one, the old settlers are passing away and soon none will be left who can refer the young minds back to the day when Fort Wayne was only a fort in name.

TOLEDO TAFFY.

Crazy Ticket Scalper Comes a Game of Hoodwink.

But Without Success and Hospitalism Explodes
the Bubble.

For some time past a paragraph has been going the rounds of the press of the United States, to the effect that a ticket broker had purchased of the Lake Erie and Western $100,000 worth of railroad tickets at greatly reduced rates. This report was so discredited in the mind of a Toledo Telegraph reporter that he forthwith proceeded to Sam Fisk, the well known ticket scalper for information.
Now Sam is too smart to give anything away, especially anything concerning his own interests, but he is made to say in the Telegraph that he has purchased of the Lake Erie and Western road, $275,000 worth of tickets, which will sell at greatly reduced prices, thus compelling the Wabash road to come down on its western rates.

Sam says he has employed three extra clerks for his Toledo and Detroit offices, having two offices in the latter city. He will give his whole time to the business. When the proper time comes he will place the tickets on sale at all of the important cities, probably fifty or sixty, tributary to the Lake Erie and Western, and the Chicago and Alton. The tickets are good to all western points, such as St. Louis, Kansas City, St.
Joe, etc. He will place the tickets on sale at New York, Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit, Pittsburgh, Columbus, Cincinnati, Dayton, and, in fact, in all the important cities tributary to the Lake Erie and Western. He can get passengers from Cincinnati to Lima for $8.50; from Dayton to Lima for $2.10; from Columbus to Fostoria, $2.00;
from Columbus to Sandusky, $1.80;
and from Buffalo to Sandusky, $1.80;
and shortly from Toledo to Fostoria by the Ohio Central, which will soon be in operation. The Lake Erie and Western and the Ohio Central are owned by the same men, and their interests are identical.

He further says that he has paid in good, clean cash $275,000 for the tickets and expects to sell them all in three years at a profit of about 100 per cent. This is as gleaned from the Toledo Telegram.

The truth of this matter is that the Lake Erie and Western road deposited with Sam Fisk about $50,000 worth of tickets, but required him to give security for them. This security was furnished by a banker in Toledo named Griffith.
The whole matter is to endeavor to compel the rival roads to cut, or allow the Lake Erie and Western to enter the pool. If Sam Fisk had any such amount of tickets with such brilliant prospects as he says he has, he would not run to a newspaper office with the information. He is too shrewd for that. The article gotten upon by Fisk and the Telegram reporter reads well, but it has no logic, no reason, and, as a consequence, no weight.

THE OHIO CENTRAL SHOPS
located at Bucyrus, are of greater magnitude than is generally supposed.
The buildings are of brick, slate roofed, and are made as nearly fireproof as can be. The round house contains fifteen stalls; the machine shops five pits for setting up and repairing engines, with a similar room, excepting the pits, for the purpose of building and repairing cars. The main building, including machine and carpenter shop, is 246 feet in length and 175 feet in width, with two Ls, one divided in two compartments, one for boiler room and the other for the engine. The other L will be used for a blacksmith shop with a capacity of twenty-two fires.
The length of the Ls are sixty feet by thirty-five feet in width. Another building, twenty-two by forty feet, two stories, containing four rooms on the first and three rooms on the second floors, will be used as offices for the superintendent, master of machinery, master of transportation and telegraph. All machinery used will be of the modern pattern for use in wood and iron. A new switch yard is also being constructed. Everything is being pushed to completion as fast as the weather will permit. A large new union depot is to be built by the two companies, at the crossing, as soon as the weather will permit. With all these improvements, Bucyrus has begun to assume metropolitan airs, and expects to increase her population in the coming year from 500 to 800. The railroad expects to employ from 250 to 300 hands.

Other Rail Notes.
INCORPORATED.
Articles of consolidation of the Ohio Railway Company, incorporated to construct and operate a line of road from Paulding to Crumull counties in Ohio, and the Ohio, Fort Wayne and Chicago railroad company, organized to build and maintain a road from a point at the terminus of the Ohio road, to run through Indiana and to the southern part of Cook county, Illinois, were filed with the secretary of state Thursday. The capital stock will be $7,400,000 and the new corporation known as the New York, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railroad Company.

PERSONAL MENTION.
—Col. Burns and Thomas McBride, two prominent attorneys of Mansfield, Ohio, are in the city, at the Mayer house. Col. Burns was a member of the Ohio state senate several years ago, also a delegate to the Cincinnati constitutional convention. He is one of the old settlers of Richland county and is full of reminiscences of early days.

CRUEL CAPS.
He Knocks the Bottom Out of their Prices.

Rine Caps, the well known jeweler, respectfully invites the attention of the public to his fine stock of jewelry, which he is now displaying at his emporium, 56 East Main street.

Mr. Caps started business in a humble way, but by close attention, and application he has built up a large trade and now enjoys a most excellent patronage. His goods are unquestionably the best in the market, and his prices are as low as the lowest. He guarantees entire satisfaction or money refunded. That his enterprise is appreciated is best attested by his growing patronage.
As the holidays are now approaching, he desires all contemplating the making of presents to call on him and select some article from his large and well assorted stock.

Dr. J. F. Jones
will be at the Avenue house for a few days, and will give prompt attention to those wishing treatment for nasal catarrh. The remedy I use is the result of many years experience, and has been uniformly successful in curing this disease, when properly applied. Our method of treatment is simple and effective. Our motto is, first cleanse and then cure. I apply my remedies directly to the parts affected by the disease. Those wishing treatment will find it in their interest to call and examine our method.

J. F. Jones, Specialist.

ROGER'S

GROUPS.

They are the nobliest and most acceptable Wedding, Birthday and Christmas Gift you could possibly select.

Every Fort Wayne dealer that belongs to a person of intelligence, refinement, and artistic culture should have at least one of these celebrated groups.

We have decided to put in a fine stock of these groups for the holidays, and to sell them at Department Store Prices, which in this instance will amount to a reduction of fully one-quarter from retail prices. Parties desiring to make selections for the holidays are requested to come in and look at them now and have them set aside for them.

WE MENTION A FEW OF THE SUBJECTS:

Going for the Cows.—The boy has ridden to the pasture for the cows. The bars are down, and the horse is grazing, while the boy and his dog are too much interested in a woodcock, a hole to think of the cows.

Coming to the Parson.—The Minister is sitting in his study at his table, reading his paper, and has just looked up to notice a couple approaching hand in hand. The young man is pointing with his thumb to his companion, and asking the parson to bless them. His dog has just caught sight of the parson's cat.

The Council of War.—President Lincoln is seated and holding before him a map of the campaign. Secretary Stanton stands behind his chair, listening to General Grant, who is explaining his plan, which he is pointing out.

Rip Van Winkle on the Mountain.
Hearing his name called, he hastened down the mountain, while "Wolf" bristled up his back, and looked "fearfully down the glen." They met a "short, square-built fellow, with thick bushy hair and a grizzled beard. He bore on his shoulder a stout keg, that seemed full of liquor, and made signs for Rip to approach and help him with the keg."

We Bewe.—The boys have brought the horse to the brook. While he has been drinking, the boy who drove him lost the reins and is trying to restrain them with his stick, but is alarmed at the threatening action of the horse, which is turning his head to bite him. He is tried by the other boy, who is trying to climb on his back from the bank, and is pulling himself up by the horse-blanket.

Weighting the Baby.—The lady has brought her baby to be weighed in the grocer's scales, and has placed it in the balance. A boy is pulling down and adjusting the weight of the baby, unseen by the others, who are surprised at the high weight recorded.

The Foundling.—A poor woman has brought her baby, in a basket filled with straw. A boy is pulling down and adjusting the weight of the baby, unseen by
the others, who are surprised at the high weight recorded.

The Favored Scholar.—The teacher is partial to a young girl, and is helping her with her sums on her slate, while a boy is making fun of her round the corner of the teacher's desk, by putting curls from the leaves of his book, over his ears.

We will pack any of these groups and ship them free of freight charges to any town within 150 miles of Fort Wayne. Catalogue and prices will be sent by mail when applied for.
